If you love the FIFA franchise as much as we do, this article on everything FIFA will help you step into the world of FIFA 22 like never before. Huge news! FIFA 11 is on its way this autumn and we've got more details on what to expect. PLAY STYLE WITH THE ALL-NEW DIVERSE GAMEPLAY As if the last FIFA you played wasn't fun enough, FIFA 11's game engine has undergone a drastic overhaul that puts more focus on enjoyable and diverse gameplay to deliver an experience that is packed full of personality. Simple things like the passing, dribbling, shooting and attacking concepts have received a much-needed makeover to ensure that every player type will feel right at home. This is coupled with lots of smaller tweaks and additions to further round out the experience, bringing FIFA 11 to a new level of intuitive fun. There are a range of things that have been tweaked to make things feel right. With a little practice, players will notice that head-to-head battles have a greater sense of physicality, providing an extra edge on the pitch. A simple example, is the ability to hit a

What's new:

- Get to the World Cup: The new FIFA World Cup is coming to life with highlights and controls tailored specifically for advanced gameplay. FIFA World Cup has a tighter control system for deft passing and tackling, and increased quick control responses. Better passing and ball movement are a guarantee in the new game.

- Raw High-Flying Moves: Switch off the trappings of control completely with acrobatic celebration passes, high-flying manoeuvres and spinning celebrations.
- Supercomputers in the Back Lines: The FIFA 22 AI is more intelligent than ever. FIFA 22's EA Sports Football Super Season has innovated, with four fully-permeated and independently intelligent AI match conditions - Man Marking, Man Play, Tactical Defending, and All-in-All - so opponents can now have a collective set of tactics and behaviors to embrace. All-in-All is new to this year's game, with both defenders and attackers having individually-set goals to achieve, challenging each other to be ready. AI match conditions will be your starting position. FIFA 22 also includes AI-controlled Authentic Opposition created from social tags recorded throughout the year in the game.
