Players will receive a variety of new and improved animations, contextual controls and Player Impact Engine (PIE). For example, cut-backs are more fluid, passing and dribbling moves are smoother, and crosses are easier. Artificial Intelligence Artificial Intelligence (AI) is another major feature of this year's FIFA franchise. The difference is that, instead of governing individual players, the AI is closer to a player manager. In FIFA 22, AI decisions will influence the performance of the whole team on the pitch. For example, if the AI detects that you need to press the ball in order to make a pass, it will do so if you are pressing rapidly with a combination of the X Button and A Button, and will also nudge the player in the correct direction. The AI will also take note of how you position your player within a certain area, and whether you pass the ball on the ground or in the air, as well as what kind of pass is best suited for a specific situation. Other major changes include a new and improved X-Factor system, which equips players with X-Passes, which can be used to create bigger crosses and have them drift with the strength of the pass. New Features The 'Dribble Count' meter has been revamped to better reflect the intensity of play. The Defensive Matrix compiles the team's position on the pitch and tells you exactly where players are looking and how they're shielding their goal. Players now react quicker and faster, therefore they are also more likely to make an impression in the Dribble Count meter, regardless of their position on the pitch. In other words, midfielders are no longer as safe as they once were. New Players New players have been added to the game such as G.Carpentier (South Africa), F.Davies (France), C.Alonso (Spain), A.Marcelino (Spain), I.Kubel (France), T.Hutchison (Scotland), F.Guidetti (Italy), M.Mbah (Gabon), N.Silva (Brazil), M.Luukko (Finland), C.Saunders (England), G.Aguero (Argentina), M.Traore (Italy) and many more. The EA SPORTS Player Career has been completely re-imagined, with

MATCHMAKING SCORES Every match has matchmaking scores and you can see details of every player on both teams and how they match up against each other as you search for your perfect game. TARGETSMANSHIP You can see and select just about every player on the pitch before a game begins, and throughout the match. You can select your target with ease and using the camera, as well as controlling players via the Touch Pad. The added Targeting and Throw assists help you get your head around the game quickly and easily. TOUCH As with FIFA 21, players can use the Touch Pad to control passing, shots, crosses, heading, shots on goal, free kicks and corner kicks. It's simple, responsive and lets you get on with the game. CLUTCH KICK The controller is used in a similar way to FIFA 21 and you can kick as you would in real life, with a variety of different kicks and tricks. The controller keeps the action centred throughout the game, making this a very natural way to play the sport. COLLISION Being a football game, there is naturally going to be a certain amount of tackling and contact between players, but with FIFA Ultimate Team, the team and player behaviours have been made much more natural and naturalistic. Players will react to defenders and attackers as they would in real life, and as a result, there is

Description: For Advanced Dungeons & Dragons Monster Vault, characters use a set of attributes to determine their ability scores, equipment, and magical powers. Players calculate their character's ability scores (called attributes) by answering several questions about the player character. This is done after the character's background and other information are chosen. Then, the character's equipment and magical powers are chosen, based on the player's calculated ability scores. The Advanced Dungeons & Dragons Monster Vault is an expansion that contains all the previously published rules for Dungeons & Dragons 3rd edition. It also contains rules
