Most football games use a 2D view that displays a computer-generated player on a 3D environment. FIFA 21 introduced a 3D Tactical View, a feature that uses the same 3D engine as the actual 3D stadiums and motion capture players to animate the artificial players in the 3D environment. This type of feature allows players to observe 3D player animations and movements. Some football games even let you place the player in specific positions in real 3D environments, however, FIFA 22 allows you to play the game on a flat-surface with your 3D players without the need of placing them in the stadiums. Another new feature introduced in FIFA 22 is the "Motion Channel," a feature used to improve the player animations and match presentations. The motion channel adds accurate motion capture data to player animations of up to four players on the field. "Almost every single game improvement or addition has a purpose," said technical director Andreas Seifert. "The Motion Channel, for example, is not just to look cool. It's to replace some physics at times to give us a better, more realistic feel. It's to enhance performance, minimize the impact of microstutter (when a football game has 'microstutters'), and deliver a level of quality no other game can. We've added over a million new animations to the game, and we've added over a thousand new player actions. We've added a billion new and improved waypoints, and our AI systems have been reworked too. We're crazy, and we're proud of what we've built here at FIFA Studios." "We will soon launch the Real Player Motion capture Challenge," added executive producer Oliver Kreylos. "To celebrate FIFA 18, we challenged fans to create the most realistic video footage we've ever seen of real players performing amazing actions. "It wasn't easy, but we managed to get the response we wanted from the fans. At World Cup 2014 (the game's release year) we're inviting the public to perform real-life goal celebrations that we'll use as in-game animations for the players. Real Player Motion capture will let us capture every move and include them in every gameplay sequence and presentation." While the majority of the game improvements focus

Assess your collection of players to identify which ones have untapped potential, then upgrade them and collect trophies to make your team your very own. Your players will grow and improve over time as you achieve success in matches - building up their confidence and unlocking new abilities. Play Now - Create a Pro, defeat your friend online or create your own team and take on the global community on the pitch - FIFA 22 Play Now FUT is a feature for EA SPORTS FIFA in its EA SPORTS Football series. Through the FIFA Ultimate Team, players can choose, buy, and sell a variety of players; these can then be used in real-time matches. Players can purchase packs of new players, or players from the player pool. New players have attributes that can improve their player performance, and there are many different attributes which affect performance in addition to statistics such as goals scored, assists, and fouls committed. Players earn rewards for playing matches, such as packs or cards which can be used for rewards. On top of earning rewards, players can also earn special player cards, which can then be used in Ultimate Team to customize a player's appearance. In FIFA Ultimate Team, players can also earn coins, which can then be used to purchase packs, players, or cards. FIFA 22 features achievements through the Create-A-Player, My Club and FIFA Ultimate Team. Social features FIFA Ultimate Team Premium Create-A-Player FIFA Coins FIFA Ultimate Team Reception The early reviews for the game, upon release, were generally positive. IGN gave it a score of 8.8/10 and said, "FIFA 22's return to action is better than ever, and like its preceding predecessors, it delivers that essential EA Sports FIFA experience, complete with plenty of ways to let you flex your footballing muscles. FIFA on iOS has always been a solid app, but it's only now beginning to match the quality and fun of the console counterpart. For the first time, it's among the best sports games you can play on any platform." Xbox One The game received a 10/10 score from Official Xbox Magazine and as of July 15, 2016 is the number one Xbox One exclusive game in North America and sold more than 1.1 million units in its first week of release. Criticism Although FIFA 17 received high scores on all platforms, criticism of FIFA 18 received much higher than that of FIFA 17. This generated such negative criticism that on

What's new:

- New Career Mode features new Pro Team and Player Career modes, Live One-on-One gameplay, improved player creation and team building, new accurate pacing of gameplay based on performance, dialogue choices and a greater involvement with the story-driven script, new Player Focus and exclusive to FIFA 22, Custom Draft and auction.
- New and improved MyClub with the first ever real-time drafting, trading, and auctioning interfaces. Successful on-the-fly trades are now shown on-screen and available at any point. Owners can manage every aspect of their MyClub right from the start. Transfer fees, bonuses, custom transfers and more are available and you can now strike deals with a long list of other clubs.
- New and improved gameplay tweaks deliver improved handling, ball physics and tweaks to the form and distance of passes, dribbling and shooting. New faster and reactive AI makes the smarts of individual players even more apparent, including new dribbling and running patterns. An offensive set-piece simulation has been added, including set-pieces controlled from set-piece corners. Defender psychology has been enhanced and new flair moves have been added. The pace of play has been made faster, with a greater involvement on both sides of the ball.
- Player growth has been made more nuanced. At lower levels of development the movement has been pulled back. There is a greater growth trajectory to height in both direction and now more engagement in terms of player interaction, while there's also been a small adjustment to their development time to extend their route points. They also react more intelligently to training.
