“The ability to personalize the gameplay experience is now available at all levels of the sport, from the professional game to grassroots,” said Christian Vieri, Director of Player Intelligence. “The amount of movement and challenges on the pitch are increasing every year, and HyperMotion Technology means that players are constantly rewarded for their improvement and growing skills throughout their careers.” The “Goalscorer Creator” - FIFA’s reimagined form of the game’s “Triangle of Doom” - makes the on-screen action simpler by helping create more striking goals by rewarding creative attacks and intelligent goal-scoring tactics. Additionally, players will have more control over their shots by being able to place the ball on the exact spot from a natural position, make precise curved shots, clear the box from the run of play, as well as show off their shooting skills with the ability to rack up impressive shots. A variety of new global and local player celebrations are included, including “running into the crowd” that starts with players circling the pitch to celebrate a goal, “diving” that involves a player to have his head on the ground after a goal, and “injured” that comes after a player is injured. Team skills, such as a “hug the earth”, “run the channel” and “play the ball” have also been improved, with the latter featuring additional animation. Refereeing has been improved with new animations and visual cues, and he will now send players offside whenever the ball makes contact with them, while also awarding more free kicks for excessive fouling. Players will also be better able to control the ball with more precise dribbling. “FIFA 22 tackles a range of issues that will impact the game both on and off the pitch,” said Eugene Yap, Executive Producer on FIFA. “We are thrilled to be able to introduce more vibrant player celebrations, new defender animations and new ways to score.” The star ratings for matches have been slightly adjusted to reflect a match played in “super professional” conditions. Career average point increases from 8.58 to 9.46 and total points from 1,000 to 1,100. In FIFA Ultimate Team, cards are now more intuitive with
