The webinar was a great success and received a phenomenal response. I'd like to share some of the highlights with you and ask you to pass this article on to anyone you think would find it useful. I reiterated the company's commitment to FannieMae servicelink and pointed out a few important points about the timing and requirements of the program. ServiceLink is a significant step forward, not just because it has been announced, but because it is the first time Fannie Mae has used the word "servicelink" in any public announcement. When Fannie Mae says servicelink, it means the same thing as when you say "service line". I also discussed the types of services available, the timeline for implementation, and a description of the benefits of servicelink to members. We heard from industry leaders and senior executives, Fannie Mae's association officers, and other industry experts who expressed strong opinions about the servicelink plan and a high degree of interest in the program, which is a good sign. They also reported that servicelink will be implemented in stages, beginning with a pilot and working its way through the three phases as the business model is fine-tuned. Fannie Mae's interest in servicelink was also evident by the level of discussion and the feedback provided to me by the association officers. I believe the servicelink program is a welcome change at a time when association membership is decreasing and when the industry is facing so many other important issues. The servicelink program is
