I have this code in my class FileOutputStream fos = new FileOutputStream(file); fos.write(data); fos.close(); return true; But the line:

fos.write(data); throws an exception: java.io.FileNotFoundException: /storage/emulate d/0/Camera-Restrictions-Demo/d.png (No such file or directory) The problem is that I cannot return the exception to the calling activity because it catches everything. Is there any way to send a special message to the activity which called this method to say that this call returned something wrong? A: I would declare an interface, and use it to wrap the two operations; interface Persistable{ public void put(T data);
public boolean exists(); } class SomeObject implements Persistable{ ... @Override public void put(T data) { //do the put } @Override public boolean exists() { //do the exists check }
... } MainActivity.java public class MainActivity extends AppCompatActivity implements Persistable{ ... private T something; @Override

public void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) {
