Elden Ring Features Key:

Raid Battle From being simple, basic battles to ferocious, grand battles, explore numerous layouts. You can take part in endless battles as you cleave your way to the top of the map.

Crafts Elden Ring contains numerous crafting recipes from Althea, Althea's elder sister. Craft them to create stronger equipment.

- The recipe crafting function is separate from the crafting menu. We have ensured that players can enjoy the tasks of crafting more easily.
- To use the craft system, you need Althea's Prisms (more on that below). The crystals are a typical material used in the Crafting System, and their value is determined by the values of individual items. This allows "broken down" items to be used for more value, meaning that you can use high-grade materials for common items, even if they are lower-grade items.

Attacks In the field, weapons can be equipped on a weapon slot. In the Crafting menu, crafting is done using weapons equipped. The items you use can be whatever you want (even weapons,) by crafting.

- You can resist the effects of different attributes of the weapons you use by equipping +5/-5.
 - Many users will be acquainted with the "Judge of Worth" function in mobile phone games. The same system is here in Elden Ring. Unlike the typical attacks where the higher the points, the higher the damage, you can decrease the damage and increase the power of any attack you want. It is up to you!

Equipment Quality Various items are discovered randomly from maps and monsters. Several levels of quality can be obtained with good-quality items. Consumables such as the elixir and Prism crystals are obtainable with high-quality.

- Good-quality items have a larger effect than low-quality items of the same type. The value of the materials you use is also high.
- You can turn your Good-quality items into good-quality materials with the Green Sapphire, the Green Ruby, and the Green Rhinoceros. You
